Subject: Personal protective equipment is sexist - The BMJ

Regan

Not to add to the PPE issue, but this is an interesting BMJ article - opportunities for improvement in design going forward.

Personal protective equipment is sexist <https://blogs.bmj.com/bmj/2021/03/09/personal-protective-equipment-is-sexist/>

In our healthcare system, where 77% of staff are women, PPE does not protect female staff as well as their males colleagues
